CVPOA meeting Report

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association (CVPOA) Board of Directors held its monthly meeting on March 13 at the Mid Valley Fire Station.

Director Flippen reported that the Planning Commission had twice deferred a decision on whether to begin improvements on the Highway 1/Carmel Valley Road intersection. The deferral is due to a threatened lawsuit by a group which thinks the interim improvements are a waste of money and want to see the Hatton Canyon Freeway built instead. The Planning Commission has indicated that it will not defer the issue again and the CVPOA has communicated to the Planning Commission that it would like to see the interim improvements made.

Director Bernardi reported that the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) appears to be ignoring the State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB) decision that 69% of the water Cal-Am pumps from the Carmel River is illegal and must be replaced. Bernardi suggested that the CVPOA communicate to the MPWMD that it needs to create a rationing plan and to institute a moratorium on new connections until the SWRCB requirements are met. The CVPOA Board agreed that a rationing and/or conservation plan will be necessary as it will be some time before a new water project comes on line. The Water Management Committee will meet to draft a letter to the MPWMD.

Director Crane-Franks reported that she would like the CVPOA to do more opinion polls at membership tables for the joint purpose of letting

The Carmel Unified School District Board of Education held its regular meeting on March 14 at the Carmel Middle School Library.

Sheriff Ray George presented the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program to the Board. Mr. George has been a peace officer for 25 years and is currently the Monterey County Sheriff's DARE officer. Mr. George said the DARE program reached over 25 million kids last year and tries "to give kids the tools to live a drug free life". Mr. George teaches classes throughout the Carmel School District to Kindergarten through High School students. The DARE program teaches children the skills to resist peer pressure through role-playing and highlights self esteem and the consequences of drug use. The DARE program targets young students to develop a good rapport with law enforcement through the DARE officer.

Warning to Pac Bell Consumers

Pacific Bell is at it again. During March they are forcing new "call return" and "repeat dialing" dialing services, at $.75 per use, on customers, by giving the services free during March.

Both of the new services may have value to a few customers. The catch is, like 900 service, you must call Pac Bell and block the services before March 31st, or face the potential for charges for unintended or accidental use of the services.

Users of the service will also be charged for any toll or long distance fees on the "call return" service.

To cancel both or either of the $.75-plus per-shot services, you must call Pac Bell at 1-800-518-5060.

The Sun's Report on the Water District meeting

By Elizabeth Cowley

California State Senator Henry Mello (D-Watsonville) introduced Bill 1951 on February 23, 1996 to change the makeup of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD).

After the defeat of the New Los Padres Dam last November the MPWMD has been subjected to increased scrutiny. The MPWMD spent $30 million on the failed dam and this years budget, without dam expenditures, is approximately $4.4 million. While the MPWMD budget has been attacked, Bill 1951 does not address the MPWMD budget or the MPWMD scope of responsibility. Pat Allen of Senator Mello's office said "everything stays the same except the makeup of the board."

The MPWMD currently consists of 5 members elected by division and 2 appointed members; the 5th District Supervisor and a city mayor. The function of the MPWMD is to augment the water supply, allocate water within the district, promote conservation and protect the environment including vegetation, fish and wildlife.

Mello's bill would replace the current board with a board comprised of 8 appointed members; six city mayors from Carmel by the Sea, Del Rey Oaks, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Sand City and Seaside and 2 members from the Board of Supervisors. If a mayor or supervisor chose not to serve, an alternate could be appointed to a term not to exceed 2 years.

At recent MPWMD meetings both the current MPWMD Board and the public have voiced concern that an appointed board will not be as

MPWMD Board's meeting recap

At its regular meeting on February 29, 1996, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District took these actions:

1. Adopted Ordinance 82 which repealed Ordinance 78 that would have established a user fee to finance the New Los Padres Water Supply Project had it been approved by the electorate in November, 1995.

2. Approved an action plan for water supply alternatives which focuses on non-dam alternatives. It is the first step of a phased water supply augmentation plan that will be refined in the future as more information is developed on the costs and resources needed to implement specific water supply alternatives. Components of the plan include: clarification of existing and future water supply needs, a summary of alternatives that are currently being pursued by the District, other alternatives that merit immediate action, and additional alternatives that merit immediate action but may take several years to implement.

3. Adopted Resolution 96-02 which provides direction to District staff to concentrate their efforts on non-dam alternatives such as water reclamation, water conservation, ground water development in the Seaside Coastal Ground Water Basin, conjunctive use of the waters in the Carmel River Basin and desalination. The resolution was adopted without section 6 regarding staff involvement with future development of a dam on the Carmel River. The Board plans to consider adoption of a brief statement outlining its policy on development of a dam at its meeting on March 18.

4. Considered a proposal to amend Rule 24 of MPWMD rules and regulations related to connection charges established to fund water supply projects. The Board agreed that no action should be taken to modify or suspend collection of connection charges, as the District is moving forward on water supply projects. Connection fees will continue to be collected to fund water supply project planning efforts.

5. Considered a proposal, and chose not to move ahead, to eliminate collection of property taxes to fund MPWMD activities. Property taxes will continue to be collected.

6. Reviewed and adopted amended MPWMD budget for fiscal year 1995-96 with mid-year adjustments. The Board approved the amended budget that reflected a $1.8 million reduction in expenditures.

7. Agreed on compensation for General Manager. Darby Fuerst was appointed to the position of General Manager of the MPWMD on December 18, 1995, but at that time the Board did not make a decision on compensation. At the February meeting, the Board agreed on Mr. Fuerst's salary, an automobile allowance, and included the same health and retirement benefits received by all District employees.

State says Water District must solve problems

At a special public workshop on March 11, 1996 Ed Anton, Chief of the Water Rights Division of the State Water Resources Control Board, told the audience that adverse environmental effects on the Carmel River must be corrected or the community can expect the State Board to take some type of enforcement action.

According to Anton, although it is the State Board's opinion that a new Carmel River dam would best solve the existing environmental problems on the river, the State cannot dictate that the community build the dam. "It's a local decision what project or projects are developed," said Anton. He further noted that the State Order responding to complaints against Cal-Am requires that Cal-Am develop a plan with specific projects that will solve the Peninsula's water problems.

Anton was invited to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's (MPWMD) workshop to clarify water rights issues to help ensure that Water District plans are consistent with State rulings about water extractions from the Carmel River system. At the workshop, Anton, along with Larry Foy, Vice-President of California-American Water Company (Cal-Am) and Darby Fuerst, MPWMD General Manager, answered questions from the public on water rights and water supply issues.

At its March 11 afternoon session, the Water District Board received two reports summarizing Water District programs carried out in 1995. The District's Annual Report summarizes programs and projects implementing the District's goals to augment the water supply, prevent degradation of resources, optimize the production capacity of existing resources, manage water demand, and promote water reclamation and conservation.

The 1994-95 annual report for the Five-Year Mitigation Program summarizes programs to help preserve the steelhead fishery, streamside vegetation along the river, and the wetland lagoon at the river mouth. Associated activities such as monitoring water quality and quantity are also described. Copies of the annual reports are available for public review at the District office, 187 Eldorado, Monterey. More information may be obtained by calling 649-4866.

5th District Endorsement and a Reminder

The race for the 5th District Monterey County Supervisorial seat, being vacated by my friend, the venerable and good-hearted Sam Karas, has in recent weeks lost focus.

Interestingly, the late entry of environmentalist Zan Henson has shifted much of the focus in the race to the single issue of the Rancho San Carlos development. Only candidate Jeff Davi, who missed by only 12 votes in his last bid for the seat, has kept a vision of the larger picture of the totality of supervisorial responsibility and the vital need to address the ever increasing costs of county government and the erosion in the quality of service in some essential and vital areas, like roads, bridges, waterways, water quality and education.

Dave Potter has all the polish of a big city developer. He exudes confidence from his experience on the Monterey City Council. Yet, from his literature, it is unclear why he wants to get on the county's public payroll.

So, we have one dedicated single issue candidate from Carmel Valley, Zan Henson, and a man from Monterey who sounds like he wants to be a career politician, Dave Potter.

Jeff Davi, though younger than both of his opponents has a much longer history of involvement with the broader spectrum of issues involved in the 5th District and Monterey County. He has spent a great deal of effort in preparing himself to assume this position, which is most important to residents of unincorporated Carmel Valley, Pebble Beach, South Coast and Carmel. He also has a solid foundation of knowledge about Pacific Grove and Monterey.

The Sun gives Jeff Davi our unqualified endorsement for Supervisor of the 5th District. There is a depth of appreciation for our common community values that is admirably shown in Jeff Davi.

A Reminder

Remember "the rule of No" when considering the myriad propositions on the ballot. "If you do not thoroughly understand all of the implications, costs and beneficiaries of any proposition - Vote No". Do not skip over any proposition - Vote No.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

Yes, sometimes I'm wrong. I would have thought that playing Chief World Policeman in Bosnia, as an election gimmick, would have been enough, but then, challenging Cuba was an opportunity that couldn't be passed up, and now, still better, our President is going "all out", in a heroic effort to get our country front row seats for the start of a shooting war with China.

Remember the "Flying Tigers", where volunteer U.S. pilots were defending China from Japanese air attacks? Well, that's all been changed for the scenario now coming up. We will be siding with Taiwan, (part of China), to save South Korea and Japan from North Korea and mainland China. So, now we know why we've been keeping U.S. troops in South Korea and Japan all of these years.

To the far-right, anti-community paranoia viewpoint, which is plentiful in Washington, D.C., (and now including the White House), those people in North Korea and mainland China are a bunch of commies, and are, therefore, Godless, and have no business being on this planet, especially during Presidential election years, when many voters might not vote for somebody in favor of abortion rights, unless it is offset by unmistakable right-wingism.

Certainly it is risky, sending U.S. warships into the middle of a Chinese naval target practice range may be too tempting for some young Chinese gunnery officer to resist, like the U.S.S. Vincennes shootdown of an airliner full of people in the Persian Bulf. Or maybe we could have a little deceit on our side, like the Tonkin Gulf trick to widen the war in Viet Nam.

Can America, $5 trillion in debt, afford a major war just to help somebody win an election that he was going to win, anyway? Of course not, and nobody "in their right mind" would think of letting it happen. But, it seems to be happening, and I am sending a letter to China's President Jiang Zemin, to explain to him that our President has been under a great deal of pressure, and that I would appreciate it, if he'd not take some of these things any more seriously than absolutely necessary. I'll send one letter directly to Beijing, and a copy to the Chinese Chancery in Washington. Stamps and envelopes are fairly cheap. Human lives are not.

LETTERS

No Letters in Favor of Prop 197

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

The only issue of concern in Proposition 197 is the sport hunting of mountain lions, But nowhere in the language of the proposition is the real issue mentioned. This purposeful omission is deception.

The California State Rangers Association opposes Proposition 197 because of this deception and because it provides nothing new for the management of cougars. The legislation only reiterates the list of management programs that are already in place. Problem lions can already be taken, and they are being taken where they pose a threat to humans or livestock. These programs will continue regardless of the passage of Proposition 197.

Opening up sport hunting of mountain lions so that individuals could hang trophy heads on the wall is the sole reason for this legislation authored by Senator Leslie.

Sport hunting is not necessary or sensible for management of the mountain lion population. It could lead to local extinction of lions in heavily hunted areas and would do nothing to address the real issues of public safety.

The California State Park Rangers Association strongly urges you to vote No on Proposition 197. Mountain lions should continue to be managed for public safety reasons, not sacrificed for personal egos.

A Few Words From Jeff Davi

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

The campaign for fifth district supervisor should be a time when candidates address issues and compare ideas.

I am campaigning on issues that are important to our district and our county, such as: maintaining and improving our quality of life, preserving our environment, making sure our local economy is healthy, making our streets and neighborhoods safer, finding solutions to our water problems, and controlling the growth of our county budget.

I'm proud to say that over 3000 voters signed my petition to run for supervisor, and hundreds of local residents have contributed their time and money to my campaign. I have broad based support from throughout the fifth district - people like homemakers, retirees, small business owners, teachers, students, farmers, executives and laborers.

Unfortunately, some who get involved in the campaign process have ignored the issues. They prefer to attack me and my campaign, distorting who I am and what I stand for. For the record, I am a Realtor - I help people (such as you) buy and sell their homes. I don't develop property, nor does my family.

If you have any questions about my campaign, my supporters or my position on issues, please give me a call at 644-9906.

I think it's time to get back to the issues in this campaign, and I hope you, the voters, agree.

Says Zan is the Man in RSC Battles

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Why am I voting for Zan Henson for 5th District Supervisor? Because he acts with steadfast conviction on his beliefs and words.

During the gathering of signatures on the Rancho San Carlos petition, I, along with many others, were continually intimidated and harassed for simply carrying out a legal continuance of the democratic process. Civility was stretched beyond recognition. It was absolutely necessary to call the stops on this graceless behavior. (I might add that even the restraining order did not stop this conduct.)

Zan Henson supported this democratic effort not only by legally representing those who were harassed but also took time out from his own campaign for supervisor to gather signatures. These actions were not bought. Zan's principles on the vital importance of representation for and by the people have been solidly proven.

What kind of supervisor do you want to represent you in the county government? One who thoroughly champions the complete democratic process or one who sits back and allows injustice to happen whether it be against people or our natural resources?

Take a stand with Zan. Vote March 26.

A Long Careful Look at Jeff Davi

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Who is Jeff Davi? A local weekly periodical recently featured Jeff Davi on its front cover with a large picture of this candidate for Fifth District Supervisor. The article within its pages was essentially a political one comparing the three candidates running for this office, their background, experience, age and fund raising ability. Jeff Davi is apparently head and shoulders above the other two candidates in his ability to attract campaign funds from a broad spectrum of Peninsula voters.

The article accurately described the job of Fifth District Supervisor as undoubtedly one of the most influential and responsible governing positions in Monterey County. While the article points out that Jeff Davi at age 28 is junior to his two rival candidates, it shows unequivocally that he has accomplished and mastered in a much shorter time a political maturity well equal to his rivals at age 45+.

The political article clearly indicates that the other two candidates are both strongly biased toward environmentalism, or precluding, among other issues, no new dam for a water reserve and no Hatton Canyon Freeway for traffic relief on Highway One or Carmel Valley Road. These problems, however, will not simply go away by themselves but require creative, balanced solutions. All three candidates are described as beholden to the will of the voters in their recent rejection of the dam. Therefore it will be a priority mandate of all of the elected supervisors to find other viable solutions, at least for water sufficiency. Jeff Davi is already leading the way to find a viable solution to our water problem. He will fit quite well into the forum of the five elected supervisors and his cordiality and ability to work with others to build consensus is certainly in his favor.

In the final analysis, it is a well balanced supervisor able to meet and solve the many problems critical to the well being of our community that is needed to fill the position of Fifth District Supervisor, now and into the next century. As I read the article, "Who is Jeff Davi" I am persuaded that this candidate, a fourth generation Peninsula resident, will certainly bring to the office of Fifth District Supervisor a superior intelligence, a very knowledgeable background, a unique conscientiousness and an abiding sensitivity to the preservation of our enviable environment, all of which will serve us well. My vote is for Jeff Davi on March 26th.

Points in Favor of the RSC Development

Roads are terrible through "open space" areas? Has everyone, including the Sierra Club, forgotten the terrible consequences of the Marble Cone fire where 250,000 acres of pristine wildlife habitat, ancient oaks and watersheds were destroyed because there were no roads to get mechanical fire-fighting equipment there? All due to unreasonable environmental rules.

RSC has shown a genuine concern to be an integral part of community life, with planned field trips and educational seminars for school children. I wish they were here years ago when my children were in school. We would have all benefitted if this had been available a long time ago.

RSC has its own water supply. Why are all other developments and unnecessary hotels okayed without hue and cry from the public - developments that tax our limited water supply and make more traffic problems than RSC ever will. This development is hidden from view and is being built on marginal (not productive) land. One home covering that beautiful deep black valley soil is more environmentally unsound than the whole RSC development.

Property rights are the strength of our Constitution. A reasonable regulation of what you can do on your property is proper. RSC has met more than what is reasonable. They have bent over backward to be fair. They are now being hit below the belt.

I think many really concerned and fine people who signed the petition against RSC would like to have the chance to retract their signatures - if they took the time to really study the facts of the case without having to fumble through all the misstatements and innuendo of the opposition. In fact, it is not too late to do that.

I also think that their opinion might be altered by again studying the Constitutional rights that made this country great. Property rights should not be treated lightly by a very few individuals with selfish interests who are experts at twisting the facts to unsuspecting people. RSC has never lowered themselves to that level.

Claims Davi is 100% Pro-Development

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Jeff Davi favored the New Los Padres Dam and a costly desalination plant. Both measures were rejected by the voters. He favors the Hatton Canyon Freeway, the Prunedale bypass, and the widening of Highway 156. Is there a water project,

Douglas Pease

We welcome the flowering irises in our garden as a signal of lengthening days and spring weather, and we crave signals the market will continue to rise and our economy will flourish. In the last three days I have been given more stock "hot tips" in my casual conversations than at any other time in my career, and that worries me. Not because business is any better or worse, but because we humans tend to get attached to the wrong signals. By the time everybody is willing to share his or her private stock signals, the game's over.

Broadcasters who cover Wall Street look to bond fluctuations for their signals about what will happen in the stock market. We say that stocks and bonds are "coupled" because we look to bonds for our signals about stocks these days. We could just as well look to gold prices or oil prices or real estate prices for our signals, but we don't anymore. In spite of what the bond signals tell us this week, most U.S. corporations are either making profits as never before because of streamlined operations and smarter management, or they are working in that direction. The signals don't say it all...In fact, the ones we respond to are missing.

We shut our government down - and we may do it again - over conflicting signals about balancing the budget in seven years. It is likely none of our leaders engaged in the conflict will be around for seven years to be sure the final plan works, so why is the signal so important? It is indeed misleading.

This year's candidates believe they are responding to signals from voters about welfare, immigration, abortion, morality, tax reform, and trade isolation. In spite of what candidates perceive are the signals, our country will grow or shrink as a result of how we will treat an expanding population of elderly citizens, how we will link ourselves into global trade, and how we will go about improving shaky bridges and rusty brains. The signals don't say it all...in fact, they are misleading.

If you have any hot stock tips, join the investment club at the library...it's fun. If you are bewildered by the inability of our leaders to develop a financial plan, refine your own. If you haven't found a candidate you can really support, look for more meaningful signals. We'll get it right eventually...like the irises.

COMPUTER TALK

Val Healey

Part 2 - An introduction to computers at a naively simple level

The cpu is the heart of the computer and is a metal box with a removable cover. At the front are various lights called leds (light emitting diodes), which are very low power lights that illuminate when something is operational, switches, and slots for inserting thin diskettes. At the rear of the cpu are many connection points for the peripherals such as the keyboard, monitor, printer, etc. Most of these connection points take different size plugs with differing number of wires. The box itself may be about 18" square and about 6" high and lie flat on a desk, or be a narrow tower-type of about 8" wide (across the front) x about 18" deep and from about 12" to about 20" high - for mini-, mid- and full-tower cases.

Inside the cpu are a number of elements, typically the: power supply, motherboard or mainboard drives, and various cards (also called boards) that are pressed into slots in the motherboard. The power supply (ps) conditions the electrical supply, steps down the voltage from 100v, and "rectifies" it to convert it to a constant (dc) voltage at various levels such as 3.3, 5, 15, volts, etc. The ps, typically about 6" x 6" x 4", has numerous wires attached that carry these low voltages to the motherboard, drives, etc. and has a built-in cooling fan.

The motherboard is a printed circuit board that comes in numerous sizes and types, but typically the width x height is about 9" x 6". The board is made of several layers of plastic and copper and is about 1/8" thick with many components soldered to it, the principal ones being: the base for the cpu chip (more later), slot-banks for memory chips, slots for cards, connections for the drives and power supply, a battery, a very important chip variously called the rom-bios, cmos, etc.

A drive may be external, when it has an opening at the front of the cpu case, where you can insert something such as a floppy disk, or internal type when it is located inside the case. The main types of drive are: hard drives, sometimes called hard disks (hds), which are internal, floppy drives (fds) which are external, and cd-rom drives which are also external. The hd stores information, by "writing" to it, which can be recalled later by "reading" it. The fds read the information from, or write to, wafer-thin diskettes which are enclosed in jackets with openings for the drive to access. All drives can read and write information, but most cd-roms can read only and are very similar to the better known compact disks (cds). Floppy diskettes are either 5.25" diameter, which are now being phased out, or 3.5" which are robust, and very transportable, comfortably fitting into most pockets in one's clothes.

The cards that slot into the motherboard are typically: a video card to drive the monitor, a fax/modem card for communications, a sound card to drive loudspeakers but which also may be combined with the fax/modem in the very recent cards, a card to drive a scanner, a nic (network interface card) for connecting computers together, etc.

REACHING WIDE VOLLEYS
If you are having trouble hitting wide volleys, perhaps you are taking too big of a swing. When you stretch for a volley, keep a firm wrist and don't take any swing at all.

You need to be willing to really stretch out in order to reach wide volleys. Many players don't give that extra effort which often makes the difference in reaching the ball.

freeway, or other growth-inducing measure Davi doesn't support?

On March 26, I will be casting my vote for Zan Henson, the candidate who favors sensible growth.

A Finger on Anti-Davi Ads

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

On March 8th, the Monterey County Herald published a letter that I had written regarding the 5th District Supervisorial race. The letter was in response to misleading advertisements and flyers which were being printed by Ed Leeper. As the "Save Our Peninsula Committee", he has been leading an anti-Davi campaign - running ads and handing out flyers to the public.

Leeper, a vocal supporter of Dave Potter, has been running a smear campaign. Using misleading figures, he attacks Jeff Davi's integrity, insinuating that he represents special interests. Leeper has since been compelled to partially revise his newspaper advertisement. Unfortunately his advertisements and flyers still contain misleading information. As they say, figures lie and liars figure.

In my letter to the Herald, I wrote that when it comes to personal integrity, Jeff Davi earns my highest esteem. Unfortunately, they chose to edit my comments questioning his opponents' integrity and candor. Specifically, I wrote that Dave Potter is "builder/developer who is on a payment plan because he is behind on his property taxes." I was disappointed that the Herald found this comment unfit to print. According to an article in the Coast Weekly, Potter admitted to having to establish a payment program to pay back taxes on a home he built and put on the market in Jacks Peak. This from the guy who is now running as the fiscally responsible, anti-growth, candidate.

Jeff Davi is running on the issues. As a lifelong resident, he knows what makes this area special. Jeff Davi understands the delicate balance between environmental and economic interests. Further, his education in economics and business administration will help him to achieve his goal of controlling the County budget. Jeff Davi is a dynamic new leader with an impressive grasp of the issues and a vision for the future.

I hope that on March 26th the voters will look past the rhetoric and judge the candidates on their merit. If they do, they will find Jeff Davi, a dedicated and capable candidate deserving of their vote.

Pro-Choice and Candidates

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

According to the Planned Parenthood Voter Guide, 5th District Supervisor candidates Zan Henson and Dave Potter are solidly pro-choice and believe that abortion is a "personal, private decision between a woman and her doctor," while Jeff Davi favors "limited access to abortion and/or other reproductive health services or is undecided on one or more issues." County Supervisors are involved in critical health service decisions. What is Davi's position on reproductive health and a woman's right to choose?

the status of music education in the district. Ms. King said that in 1995 both the state and federal government passed new requirements for the visual and performing arts. Four points in common are the teaching of artistic perception, creative impression, cultural and historical perspective and aesthetic value. Ms. King said instruments, band, orchestra, band, choir and chorus classes are available in the district and that the classes stress performance as soon as possible. To facilitate the performance aspect of the classes, recitals are given throughout the year.

Superintendent Joe Jaconette reported that the committee to coordinate area school calendars is progressing and is aiming for consistent start and end dates for the 1997-98 school year. Jaconette further reported that the Carmel High School Jazz fund-raiser at Sunset Center was a success.

The Board approved the retirement of John Waldron, a teacher at Carmel High School, effective at the end of this school year. The Board accepted a gift of $300 worth toys from Kathlene Tsoulas to be used in the River Recreation Program and an estimated $2,167 worth of ceramic molds from B&G Ceramics for use at the Carmel Adult School.

The next Carmel Unified School District Board of Education meeting will be held at the Carmel Middle School Library on March 28 at 7:00 PM; the meeting is open to the public.
